About Us

“The Direct Approach” is more than a slogan to Rogers & Hardin personnel. It gives us direction in how we work with clients – and our clients know what to expect from us – straight thinking, plain speaking and action.

Achieving our clients’ goals is at the center of our work, and our bespoke service orientation means that clients quickly receive the best solution tailored specifically for them. Our success is measured by speed and positive results.

Rogers & Hardin clients are sophisticated buyers of legal services. They typically work with many and often much larger law firms. But they keep coming back to us, because they know that Rogers & Hardin lawyers are entirely focused on providing strategy and value. Clients frequently reach out to us for advice and to test ideas, even on matters where we aren’t involved.

We are driven by the interests of our clients, which always come before our own.
