OVERVIEW

Rachel Bishop is a litigation associate at Rogers & Hardin. She advises businesses on employment and contract issues, as well as represents businesses, public entities, and individuals in complex civil litigation in federal and state courts.

Rachel graduated, magna cum laude, from the University of Georgia School of Law. During law school she was an articles editor for the Georgia Law Review and competed for two years in the Jessup International Moot Court Competition. During her third-year, she was a pupil in the Lumpkin Inn of Court and a participant in the Appellate Litigation Clinic, where she presented argument before the Eleventh Circuit in a Title VII retaliation case. Rachel was inducted into the Order of Barristers upon graduation and received awards for the top grade in three courses. Before law school, she received a Bachelor of Arts in History, cum laude, from Kenyon College.
